Art Unit: 3751

1. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. There is no antecedent basis for a "second recess portion" because no first recess portion is defined in parent claim 1. The antecedent is in claim 9.

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-3, 8, 11 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tsuzuki et al. (6,176,208). Tsuzuki discloses a valve device including a pair of facing electromagnets 51, 52, an armature 6, a retainer 7, a co-fastening assembly with two halves threaded together as shown in figure 1A with the upper half surrounding an urging member 22 (see claim 3). In regard to the product by process claims, such as 2 and 3, the patentability is determined by the product itself and Tsuzuki discloses the claimed product which could be manufactured by the recited processes as claimed.

4. Claims 1, 2, 4 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by DE 689 02 346. DE/346 discloses valve device including a pair of facing electromagnets 21a, an armature 22a, a retainer 20a, a co-fastening assembly 16 and a magnetic casing (see claim 4) disclosed on page 5, lines 1-6, as noted in the German search report filed 11/4/2004.

5. Claims 1-3, 5, 9, 10, 12, 17 and 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hatano et al. (6,237,50). Hatano discloses a valve device including a pair of facing electromagnets 10, an armature 14, a retainer 6, 8, a co-fastening assembly 4, an urging member 24 (see claim 3) surrounded by a separate upper housing with a lubricating fluid supply 31 and reservoir surrounding 35.

6. Claims 1-3, 6-8, 11, 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EP 0 796 981. EP/981 discloses a valve device including a pairs (as shown in figure 1b) of facing electromagnets 5, an armature 7, a retainer 4, a co-fastening assembly 3, an urging member 18 (see claim 3) surrounded by a separate upper housing. In regard to claim 7, note that electromagnets 5 are elongate as shown in figure 1b which length is into and out of the page in figure 1a.

7. Claims 1-3, 6-8, 11 and 13-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 2001 126922. JP/122 discloses a valve device including a pairs of facing elongate (see figure 3) electromagnets surrounding 12e, an armature 7, a retainer 1a, a co-fastening assembly 2, an urging member 5 (see claim 3) surrounded by a separate upper housing. In regard to claims 13-15, JP discloses connecting terminals on the left ends of 16 in figures 2 and 3.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Katsumata et al., teaches another driven valve with two sets of connected electromagnet pairs and a lubricant supply.
